

To whom this may concern,

I am writing to inquire about the recently announced opening for a full-time position at Lockheed Martin and hope to learn more about the incredible opportunity at your company. I offer the experience and the needed skills that align perfectly with the requirements demanded by your opening, including the ability to develop responsive, multi-platform, and performant web applications using over a dozen frameworks, including React.JS, Angular, Vue.JS, and many more. My skill set continues beyond there. I can also develop in languages. Specific to major Mobile OSes (Android and iOS), including Swift, Java, and Kotlin. Along with my ability to work independently, learn quickly, and be a team player or leader, and with the knowledge of many management systems, including Jira, Azure DevOps, and their respective methods of management, Scrum and Agile, I can create structure and meet deadlines on time or earlier.

Below is my comprehensive E-Portfolio highlighting my strong front-end development and mobile development skills, and my other skills that will seamlessly align with the demands of your new internship / full-time position at your company.
